Readers are presented with the tenth Human Development Report for the Russian Federation. National reports such as this are published on the initiative of the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) in many countries of the world. Global reports are also brought out annually. The reports are compiled by teams of independent experts.

The present Report was put together by combined efforts of all the UN agencies that function on the territory of the Russian Federation, with the aid of the Foundation "Centre for Strategic Development". The theme of the Report is "Russia in 2015: Development Goals and Policy Priorities". The given theme is examined in the context of the Millennium Development Goals of the UN (MDGs), which were ratified by the entire international community.

The Report is intended for use by high-ranking administrative personnel, political scientists, teachers, scientific researchers and students of higher education.

The United Nations Development Programme in the Russian Federation expresses its sincere gratitude to the sponsors of the 2005 Human Development Report for the Russian Federation:

Swedish International Development Cooperation Agency (Sida)
